

VP Voices

Fall Leadership Conference

Packing List

Clothing:

- Professional FBLA dress (blazer, dress shirt/blouse, tie, skirts, slacks, and dress shoes)
- Casual clothes
- Comfortable shoes & jacket/sweater
- Undergarments, socks, pajamas

Toiletries:

- Hairbrush, shampoo, soap
- Toothbrush, toothpaste, deodorant
- Other personal hygiene items & medications

Tech & Extras:

- Notebook, pens, folder/binder
- Phone & charger/powerbank
- Headphones
- Water bottle & Snacks
- Spending money/debit card
- AHA fundraiser donation

Leadership Trainer

Our leadership trainer for FLC is going to be Dr. Bryant Collier. Dr. Collier travels the country empowering and encouraging leaders to never give up on their journey to success. Dr. B is a dynamic speaker who loves working with students and is a proud FBLA alumni. If you've attended NFLC or NLC in the last few years, you may have seen Dr. B as a workshop presenter - but we're so excited to be bringing him for his first speaking opportunity in North Dakota!

@DrBSpeaks

Workshops

At this year's Fall Leadership Conference, you'll have many opportunities for leadership development - including workshops. At these workshops, you will be able to learn, interact with members from across the state, do fun activities, and more! Having an open mind while going to these workshops is essential. This will help you take in information, meet new people, and most importantly, have fun. These workshops will help you become a great leader, build your networking skills, and build your problem-solving skills through challenges and competitions.

You will also have the chance to step outside of your comfort zone and discover new strengths you may not have known you had. Each workshop will offer something different, so be ready to participate, and learn from others. Whether you are attending your first conference or have been to several, these workshops have something for everyone.

Networking

Networking serves as a vital skill within the business world where you will meet many new faces. This is why it is important to get yourself familiar with the concept as a young business leader. When attending an event such as our Fall Leadership Conference, ensure that you are putting yourself out there and meeting new people. In the business world, it's not always what you know, but instead sometimes who you know. Some ways to begin your networking journey is by sitting with new individuals at different workshops or greeting people in the hall. It is important that when interacting with others you use active listening while also informing the other about yourself. Some easy topics would include asking where they are from, what they want to go into, or simply finding a similar interest.